

Business Statistics-I

1. Distinguish between descriptive and inferential statistics.
2. Describe and differentiate the key terms of inferential statistics.
3. Explain the importance of statistical information in decision making in the organization where you are currently working/learning?
4. List at least four numerical variables which you think are categorized under discrete variable
5. Describe the variables which you consider could be the examples of continuous variables taking the case of your own organization/School.
6. Discuss the application of Statistics in your field of study.
7. Explain the two meanings of the term ‘Statistics.’
8. Classify the following variables as qualitative and quantitative or discrete and continuous.
 - a. Number of courses that students take at AU.
 - b. The amount of rainfall at Adama over the last ten years.
 - c. The attitudes of the parents towards bringing up the children.
 - d. Type of automobiles people drive.
 - e. Length of steel bars produced in a given production run.
 - f. Weight of a bar of soap.
 - g. Employment status.
9. An insurance company has insured 250,000 cars over the last five years. The Company would like to know the number of cars involved in one or more accidents over this time period. It selects 500 clients at random from the files and makes a record of clients who were involved in one or more accidents.

Identify

- a. The population.
 - b. The sample.
 - c. The variable of interest to the insurance company.
 - d. The type of statistics used.
 - e. The scope of data collection.
10. Classify the following statements in to descriptive or inferential statistics:
 - a. The average age of students at our college is 25 years.
 - b. 20% of students in my class are married.
 - c. It is expected that there will be 1200 car accidents next three months in Ethiopia.
 - d. Two thirds of all doctors interviewed smoke cigarettes.
 - e. A firm reported that the average life span of a product is estimated to be 8 months.
11. For each of the following examples, give the highest level of measurement scale involved:
 - a. Type of automobiles people drive.
 - b. Students I.D card numbers.
 - c. Number of errors made on a production line.
 - d. Time it took to run 42 kms
 - e. Phone numbers.
 - f. Temperature readings in Fahrenheit.
 - g. Military rank
 - h. Birthplace of students.
 - i. Number of customers of a bank.
 - j. Serial numbers assigned to lottery tickets.
 - k. Months of the year Meskerem, Tikimit, ...
 - l. Blood type of individuals, A, B, AB and O.
 - m. Regions numbers of Ethiopia (1, 2, 3, etc.)
 - n. Names of persons.