

Leadership and Change Management

Chapter 1: Understanding Leadership

Learning outcomes

- Define the term of leadership
 - Difference between leadership and management
 - Explain what makes effective leader
 - Briefly explain the importance of leadership for good governance and development
 - Understand the foundations for effective leadership
-

Understanding Leadership

- Definition of Leadership
- There is no one universal definition.
 - "Leadership is having a vision, sharing that vision and inspiring others to support your vision while creating their own" (Gibbins).
 - "Leadership is the ability to guide others without force into a direction or decision that leaves them still feeling empowered and accomplished." (Cash)
 - "Effective leadership is providing the vision and motivation to a team so they work together toward the same goal, and then understanding the talents and temperaments of each individual and effectively motivating each person to contribute individually their best toward achieving the group goal." (Kimer)

Cont...

- "Leadership is being bold enough to have vision and humble enough to recognize achieving it will take the efforts of many people — people who are most fulfilled when they share their gifts and talents, rather than just work. Leaders create that culture, serve that greater good and let others soar." (Heasley)
- "In my experience, leadership is about three things: To listen, to inspire and to empower. It implies understand the other person's point of view, learning from them, and using that basis of trust and collaboration to inspire and empower. [It's about] setting the bar high, and then giving them the time and resources to do great work." (Garfield)
- "leadership as knowing when to be in front to lead and guide a team during the journey, and when to step back and let others take the lead." (Schoenbaum)

Cont...

- "Leadership is the behavior that brings the future to the present, by envisioning the possible and persuading others to help you make it a reality." (Barney)
 - "Leadership styles differ, but at the core, good leaders make the people they are leading accomplish more than they otherwise would. The most effective leaders do this not through fear, intimidation or title, but rather by building consensus around a common goal." (Madine)
-

Cont...

- Leadership is a process by which one person influences the thoughts, attitudes, and behaviors of others. Leaders set a direction for the rest of us; they help us see what lies ahead; they help us visualize what we might achieve; they encourage us and inspire us. Without leadership a group of human beings quickly degenerates into argument and conflict, because we see things in different ways and learn toward different solutions.
 - Leading is establishing direction and influencing others to follow that direction. Leadership is a social influence process.
 - The leader is an individual; leadership is the function or activity that this individual performs.
-

Cont...

- The leadership function involves the following activities:
 - Setting shared objectives for group
 - Be able to motivate & direct others
 - Take responsibility for the direction & actions of a team
 - Organizing & motivating others.
 - Taking the initiative
 - Persevering when things are not working out.
 - Taking a positive attitude to frustration/failure.
 - Accepting responsibility for mistakes/wrong decisions.
 - Being flexible: prepared to adapt goals in the light of changing situations
-

Cont...

- ▶ How to become a good leader-
 - ▶ Use initiative to act on opportunities.
 - ▶ Take responsibility for own objectives: set priorities.
 - ▶ Display a "can do" attitude even in demanding situations. Try to solve problems yourself rather than to pass them on to other people. First answer is 'yes, I'll make it happen'.
 - ▶ "Go the extra mile" when asked to do tasks. Go beyond your job description. Do work that gets you noticed.
 - ▶ Show enthusiasm: this will be noticed and you will eventually be rewarded.
 - ▶ Take ownership of problems: anticipate potential problems, take pre-emptive action and act quickly to resolve problems.
 - ▶ Introduce improvements to the way things are done.
 - ▶ Develop innovative practices. Value innovative thinking.
 - ▶ Learn new skills that will enhance capability.

Leadership vs Management

Management	Leadership
To manage means to bring about, to accomplish, to have charge of or responsibility for, and to conduct.	Leading is influencing, guiding in a direction, course, action, opinion.
Management is about coping with complexity,	Leadership, in contrast, is about coping with change.
effective management requires planning, organizing, staffing, and controlling.	leadership is an important part of management, but only a part;
Management produces a degree of predictability and order.	Leadership produces change.
Managers do things right.	leaders do the right thing.

According to Kotter, leadership & Management functions differ on the following issues

	Leadership functions	Management functions
Creating agenda	Establishing direction vision, strategies for change	Plans and budget; decides action plans and timetable , allocate resources
Developing people	Aligning people; communicate vision and strategy , influence creation of teams towards goals	Organizing and staffing ; decide on procedure and monitoring structure, allocate staff , develop policy
execution	Motivating and inspiring	Controlling , problem solving Monitor result against plan and take corrective action
Outcomes	Produces positive and sometimes dramatic changes	Produces order; consistency and predictability

Leader and Manager

Leader	Manager
Innovates	Administers
Develops	Maintains
Investigates the reality	Accepts the reality
focuses on people	focuses on systems and structures
inspires trust	relies on control
has a long-range view	has a short-range perspective
asks what and why	asks how and when has his/her eye on the horizon	has his/her eye always on the bottom line
originates	imitates
challenges it	accepts the status quo
his or her own	the classic good soldier

What makes Effective Leadership?

- Effective leadership is the process of achieving desired result through people's positive/willing participation.
 - Self-assessment-periodically take stock of their personal strengths and shortcomings.
 - Sharp perception-
 - Responsive to the group's needs-
 - Knowing the organization-
 - Passion-
 - Holder of Values-
 - Vision-
 - Creativity-
 - Intellectual Drive and Knowledge-
 - Confidence and Humility Combined-
 - Communicator-
 - Planner/Organizer-
 - Interpersonal Skills-
-

The Importance of Leadership in Good Governance and Development

► Leadership in Governance

- Good governance relies heavily on effective leadership. Leaders set the tone for ethical behavior and accountability, fostering a culture that values transparency and participation. This is essential for building public trust and ensuring that organizations meet their objectives responsibly.

► Leadership for development

- Leadership plays a crucial role in development initiatives. Effective leaders mobilize resources, inspire communities, and promote sustainable practices that lead to long-term improvements in quality of life. Their vision and commitment drive progress and innovation in various sectors.

► Impact of leadership on team dynamics

- Strong leadership significantly influences team dynamics and effectiveness. Leaders who communicate clearly and encourage input foster a collaborative environment that enhances problem-solving capabilities and drives performance, leading to better overall outcomes for the organization.

Skills of an Effective Leader

- Patience
 - Educate
 - Empathy
 - Team-Building
 - Integrity
 - Decisiveness
-

Historical Context of Leadership

➤ Leadership Before World War I

➤ Mystical Nature of Leadership

- Prior to the Second World War, leadership was often viewed through a mystical lens, heavily intertwined with societal class and social position. The characteristics and qualities of a leader were often perceived as inherent, rather than developed skills.

➤ Class Issues and Leadership

- The concept of leadership was largely influenced by class issues, where leaders were typically individuals of high social standing. This exclusivity shaped perceptions of authority and governance, often sidelining effective leadership qualities that could emerge from other social classes.

➤ Limited Academic Study

- The study of leadership as a formal subject was minimal until the mid-20th century. The focus on leadership was generally anecdotal and based on personal experiences rather than systematic research or analysis, which limited the understanding of effective leadership practices.

Emergence of Leadership Studies

➤ Impact of World War II

- The Second World War catalyzed a shift in the understanding of leadership, as individuals were thrust into positions of responsibility under chaotic conditions. This context revealed the essential qualities of leadership, such as decision-making, resilience, and the ability to inspire others amidst crisis.

➤ Practical Demonstration of Leadership

- During the war, many leaders emerged who demonstrated their capabilities in real-time scenarios. Their actions provided concrete examples for the study of leadership, showcasing the importance of adaptability and strategic thinking in high-pressure situations.

➤ Post-War Leadership Scholarship

- The aftermath of the war led to an increased interest in formal leadership studies, resulting in a growing body of literature aimed at understanding the dynamics of leadership. Scholars began to analyze successful leaders and their traits, establishing a foundation for modern leadership theories.

Evolution of Leadership Concepts

- Shift from Mysticism to Practicality

- Post-World War II, the notion of leadership evolved from being a mystical attribute to a set of practical skills that could be learned and developed. This shift allowed for a more inclusive understanding of who could be a leader, regardless of their social background.

- Leadership as a Subject of Study

- The formal study of leadership began to take shape in academic institutions, with researchers exploring various leadership styles, theories, and practices. This transition marked the beginning of a more empirical approach to understanding what makes effective leaders.

- Influence of Social Changes

- As society underwent significant changes in the post-war era, the expectations and definitions of leadership also transformed. Emerging movements for equality and rights called for leaders who could address diverse perspectives and lead inclusively, reshaping the landscape of leadership.

End of Chapter 1

Any Questions?